Jonathan/Jim:

Sounds good for the CG helo. Do either of you know where the Avgas fuel drums should be set down on SEFI by the USCG (helo pad?) and if they will need to be moved inside the Power house for storage? Will they need to be moved again out of the pad for fueling? Please advise Maddy and I of this. Thanks!

Dan

To Heli Lovers,

I got a verbal commitment from USCG San Diego that they will transport the following to the Farallon NWR between the dates of Nov. 13 to Nov. 16:

- 655 gallon drums of av gas weighing approx. 2,500 lbs
- 680 lbs of cereal based bait (non-toxic) in 25lb and 10lbs buckets.
- approx. 1000 lbs of water in 5-gallon jugs about 120 gallons

Mainland staging area is not set. We are trying to make Half Moon Bay Airport (HAF) work, but there are some issues regarding the weight of the USCG HH-60 on their runway, apparently the runway is only rated at 12,500lbs and an empty HH-60 weighs 15,000lbs. The other alternative staging area is a closed off parking lot on Stinson Beach. See the below Google Earth file for exact location of this staging area. We have used this area before when the National Guard sling loaded diesel drums out to the island.

(See attached file: Stinson Beach Staging Area.kml)

Will be in touch with details as they formulate.

Best,
Jonathan
